Jeannette D. Bragger is a former professor of French at the Pennsylvania State University. Her research interests include second language acquisition and the application of theoretical constructs to the field of pedagogy and language teaching. Professor Bragger is the co-author of ALLONS-Y!; JE VEUX BIEN!; and QUANT A MOI. She received her Ph.D. from the University of California at Santa Barbara. Donald B. Rice was Professor Emeritus of French, Hamline University. His research interests included literary theory and twentieth-century French novels. He is co-author of ALLONS-Y!; JE VEUX BIEN!; and AUTOUR DE LA LITTÃRATURE. Professor Rice received his Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin.

Got this for a college French class that I'm taking, but I still don't feel like I've learned much this year. By this time last semester, we'd already gone over passÃ© compose, l'imparfait, future, et un peu du subjonctif. But this book has kept us consistently in the present tense which, while not necessarily a bad thing, certainly has stunted progression. I get the feeling that by the time it starts going through the other tenses, it'll be December crunch time and we'll have about a week to learn and review the subject matter before finals crash down around our ears. On a good note, this contains a great amount of information about French culture and world issues (homelessness, poverty, and hunger are three biggies we've encountered so far), and it's been great for my vocabulary bank.

It was fast. However, it didn't have access code inside of the book. All new books contain access code and I decided to buy this book just because of the code. If I knew it was without the code I would buy older book. As a result, I had to spend so much money.
