Love the fact that this covers many concepts. However, that can also be the downfall. You can't really give it as a homework assignment because you often need to teach one or more of the concepts covered. It can take a while to go through even if you go through it as a class. My students have computers so I told them to use their computer as a tool and look up those questions we haven't covered. I could also just eliminate the questions that deal with concepts not covered. Overall, I am glad I purchased it.

This is a great writing book, but it arrived with the first two chapters of workbook pages torn out. I contacted the seller and he very kindly issued me a refund and instructed me to just throw the book away or keep it if it is not a complete book. I just got a message that I need to return the book or my account will be charged. I hope the seller steps in and helps me with this!

I bought this book for DOL, as I always use daily oral language activities for bell-ringers. I began using this book during my student teaching, and liked it so much that I also used it during my first year of teaching full-time. Worked wonderfully and covers a wide range. I even ended up scanning pages so they could appear on my SmartBoard. I then had students come up to the Smartboard to make corrections and they really enjoyed the interactive aspect.

I needed something to hit a variety of skills in a quick way. This will help to do just that so I can see where my students need more practice and where they are proficient.

I've been looking for the seventh grade version of this for awhile.

As a 7th grade teacher, this is great for the bell ringer/warm up and the exit. I split each day into 2 segments. Makes planning easier. And it's all concepts that the students need to/should know.

I chose 5 stars for this purchase because it was exactly what it was advertised as, a valuable classroom asset, quick and easy to use. Great for second language learners and those behind 2 or more grades with skills. This book was $26 at two teacher resource stores near where I live and it was 10 to 12 $ cheaper through .

Using with my 7th graders to review conventions as a daily warm-up before the regular instruction.
